FOUR-DAY FAST AT PITTSBURGH, PA.,
BY AMERICAN FRIENDS (QUAKERS)
SERVICE COMMITTEE (AFSC)
DECEMBER 1 THROUGH DECEMBER 4, 1966

On December 6, 1966, source advised that between one to forty individuals periodically participated in a four-day fast at the AFSC headquarters, 4836 Ellsworth Avenue, Pittsburgh, which commenced at 6 p.m., December 1, 1966, and terminated during the late evening of December 4, 1966. The demonstrators distributed literature which denounced the war in Vietnam, the use of the napalm bomb, and the necessity of American soldiers being forced to kill other human beings.

Source advised that [redacted] a member of the AFSC, stated that the fast did not receive the turn-out hoped for by members of the AFSC, because of lack of publicity by the Pittsburgh news media.

Source advised that the four-day fast was orderly and without incident.

A VOYAGE OF COMPASSION AND PEACE

Early in February A Quaker Action Group will send a small boat from Tokyo to Haiphong loaded with medical supplies. The supplies will be consigned to the Red Cross Society of North Vietnam for the relief of suffering and sickness caused by U.S. bombing.

The ship is the Phoenix and Earle Reynolds, the owner, will be the captain for the voyage. In addition to Earle Reynolds and his wife, who is a Japanese citizen, there will be a crew of six members of the Society of Friends (Quakers) from the United States and other countries. It will not be the first voyage of compassion for the Phoenix and its captain. In 1958 Earle Reynolds, with his family aboard, sailed the Phoenix into the Eniwetok Pacific area in protest against nuclear bomb testing. The boat was stopped and seized by the U.S. Navy.

The voyage will be openly and publicly undertaken by its international crew. The shipping lanes are open to Haiphong and no difficulty is anticipated in the carrying out of the voyage, despite the undeclared war between the United States and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam.

The Phoenix is scheduled to arrive in Haiphong harbor in March. Several of the crew members will be prepared to remain in North Vietnam to engage in humanitarian aid to the suffering civilian population. We have requested visas from the Democratic Republic of Vietnam for that purpose.

Mission to Hanoi

In laying the voyage of the Phoenix before the Hanoi government, we reaffirmed our desire to send one or two representatives to Hanoi to discuss what service A Quaker Action Group might render there. We understand that the city has been largely evacuated as the bombing of North Vietnam has become more widespread and discriminate, and conditions there are very difficult. While the Hanoi government has recently opened its doors to brief visits by peace and human rights groups from non-Communist countries, we still have no indication that the way would be open for a large group engaged in long-term service, of the sort A Quaker Action Group has envisaged. The voyage of the Phoenix is a beginning. We hope it may open the way for Quaker assistance to the victims of war on a larger scale.

We are grateful to all of you who have contributed to the work of A Quaker Action Group. In undertaking to provide the necessary equipment for the Phoenix and transportation for American crew members, we are counting on many others who share our hopes for this voyage to give the immediate financial support which is needed. Will you help?

WIND-UP ON MEDICAL AID TO VIETNAM

The Canadian Friends Service Committee is continuing its monthly shipments of anti-biotics, anti-malarials, and surgical instruments in equal amounts to the Red Cross of South Vietnam, the National Liberation Front representative, and the Red Cross of North Vietnam. A representative of CFSC visited Hanoi in November, but it has so far not been able to send a relief team to North Vietnam.

In this country Friends and others are still struggling to get assistance to suffering people in all parts of Vietnam through the forest of government restrictions. Baltimore, Illinois, and New York Yearly Meetings, as well as the American Friends Service Committee received licenses to send funds for this purpose to the International Red Cross and/or the Canadian Friends Service Committee last fall. New York Yearly Meeting, which collected over twice as much money as it was licensed to send, has now applied for a second license. We know of at least six Monthly Meetings which have applied for licenses. The Fellowship of Reconciliation, with the cooperation of prominent church leaders, has launched a drive to raise $100,000 for relief in all parts of Vietnam.

Difficulties Encountered

To our knowledge, however, no licenses have been issued since October 12. Applicants are now being asked a number of questions which Friends will want to consider carefully before answering them. Some Friends have also expressed concern about question E on the application form as to whether they will abide by all the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, and have felt it necessary to make a conditional reply, "as far as conscience permits."

We know of six Monthly Meetings, one non-Friends group, and many individuals who have sent unlicensed contributions to the Canadian Friends Service Committee. The government has so far not moved to prosecute, but on October 28 it did send a letter to all banks in the Federal Reserve System, asking them not to honor checks made out to the Canadian Friends Service Committee, or to several Canadian Friends whose names were listed, without getting Treasury Department approval. Several checks have been blocked as a result of this.

Action

People are being hurt every day the war continues. We would urge all individuals and groups who can conscientiously do so to apply for licenses to contribute to the CFSC Medical Aid Program, in order to open up as many channels as possible for aid to go forward, and keep the pressure of this concern on the government. The application blank, Form TFAC-1, may be obtained from:

Mr. Stanley L. Sommerfield
Bureau of Foreign Assets Control
U.S. Treasury Department
Washington, D. C.

The experience of those who have applied for licenses suggests that prodding will be necessary, and the licenses may not be forthcoming at all. The amount requested is also likely to be cut. Friends should consider what they will do in these eventualities.

Those who are not at ease with the licensing procedure, and are willing to accept the risk involved may send cash by telegram or registered mail-receipt requested directly to:

Open the gates of Mercy

For more than a year individual members, Meetings and agencies of the Religious Society of Friends have sought to open channels for extending humanitarian relief to all who suffer the afflictions of war in Vietnam. Friends have been particularly concerned to see that this much needed relief be conveyed not merely to the victims of Viet Cong violence but also to the ever-mounting toll of casualties which our side has inflicted upon the civilian population of North and South Vietnam. It is our belief that all human life is precious and all human destruction wrong. We are therefore concerned to bind up the wounds and restore the health of all victims of this war - irrespective of their political beliefs or national loyalties. Surely no man deserves to bleed to death for want of medical care.

In our efforts to open channels for the extension of humanitarian relief to all victims of the war, Friends have encountered a regrettable lack of frankness and cooperation on the part of government officials. This attitude appears to be rooted in two laws (Export Control Act of 1949 and the Trading With The Enemy Act of 1917) which prohibit the shipment of any medicinal or other relief material "for the benefit" of "an individual or religious, charitable or educational organization located in...Communist China, North Korea or the Communist-controlled area of Vietnam", unless specifically authorized by the President. Friends have hoped that it might be possible to get the current Administration to modify these regulations in recognition of the humanitarian nature and intent of our relief. However it now appears that despite our various appeals, letters to the President, visits to Washington, etc. our government is more likely to stiffen than relax its restrictions on relief to Vietnam. Indeed, since October the U.S. Treasury Department has refused to authorize the transmission of any amount of relief material to either the Red Cross Society of Hanoi or the National Liberation Front Red Cross.

Today the newspapers carry reports of increasing U.S. military pressure upon the North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. Quietly, but deliberately, more and more of the Vietnamese countryside is being approved for bombing. Our country has, it appears, embarked upon a war of attrition in which the restriction of humanitarian relief would appear to be a clear and integral part.

Can this be the cause of America? Have we grown so desperate in our concern to crush the enemy and end the war that we have forgotten the meaning of humanity? We cannot accept this brutalization of the national interest. So long as the violence continues and our leaders feel obliged to go on killing people in search of an "honorable settlement" in Vietnam, so long and longer. It must be Friends and men of good will everywhere continue to reach out to all victims of this tragic war...that mercy over enemy might prevail.

If you are in sympathy with this concern, we are most grateful for your help in trying to OPEN THE GATES OF MERCY. Please write President Lyndon B. Johnson, The White House, Washington, D.C. 20500 and/or Senator J.W. Fulbright, Chairman, Senate Foreign Relations Committee, United States Senate, Washington D.C. 20510. You may wish to bring this matter to the attention of your congressman, local newspaper, church or synagogue. Should you wish to contribute towards the relief of suffering in all parts of Vietnam, you may apply for a license (Form TFA-1) by writing Mr. Stanley Somerfield, Bureau of Foreign Assets Control, Treasury Department, Washington, D.C., OR you may contribute directly by wiring cash to: The Canadian Friends Service Committee, Medical Aid Program, 60 Lowther Avenue, Toronto 5, Ontario, Canada. Persons making such direct contributions should be aware that this is in violation of U.S. federal law. Should you wish further information or assistance, we suggest you contact:

"The bleeding is not being done in the capitals of the world. It is being done in the rice fields and jungles of Vietnam--in North and South Vietnam alike. It is being done by Vietnamese and Americans . . . Communist and anti-Communist Vietnamese and mostly, in all probability, by simple peasants who cannot distinguish the one from the other, and whose greatest wish is to be spared the ravages of war. That . . . is the fundamental reality of the situation in Vietnam."

--Senator Mike Mansfield,
April 21, 1965

"When we are in a bind like we were at Bagia we unload on the whole area to try to save the situation. We usually kill more women and kids than we do Viet Cong but the government troops just aren't available to clear out the villages so this is the only answer. . . That's why we are going to lose this stupid damn war. Senseless, it's just senseless."

--U.S. Air Force officer,
The Washington Post, July 19, 1965

" . . . we have killed combatants and non-combatants without discrimination because discrimination is impossible. And this is only the beginning. . . This war is a guerrilla war, and such a war, supported or at least not opposed by the indigenous population, can only be won by the indiscriminate killing of everybody in sight, that is, by genocide."

SHIPMENT OF MEDICAL SUPPLIES FROM JAPAN TO NORTH VIETNAM SPONSORED BY AD HOC COMMITTEE OF THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS, FEBRUARY, 1967

PHILLIP DRATH
PHILLIP DRATH in news release to "Independent Journal," San Rafael, California, daily newspaper, on January 14, 1967, stated he would depart January 16, 1967, from San Francisco at 1:00 p.m. for Tokyo by air with HORACE CHAMPNEY, a Society member from Iowa. In Tokyo they will join six other Society of Friends members to prepare vessel which belongs to EARLE REYNOLDS, a visiting Professor of Anthropology at Hiroshima Women's College. They will sail with medical supplies for the Red Cross in North Vietnam in a 55-foot schooner to Hong Kong and to Haiphong, North Vietnam. They hope to obtain $25,000.00 worth of medical supplies which will be purchased in Japan for delivery to North Vietnam. Arrival in North Vietnam is planned for early March.

MEMBER OF SUBJECT ORGANIZATION

The group hopes to set up a Quaker Relief Mission in North Vietnam upon arrival there. After leaving North Vietnam, DRATH plans to continue around the world to speak in principal cities against the war.

DRATH was quoted as saying, "We want to make as much fuss as possible. We want to show how much we are opposed to this terrible war, and that the people of the North need as much help as the people of the South... We have been trying for some time to send medical supplies to the Red Cross in North Vietnam, but the State Department has interfered, so we decided to go on our own."

Characterizations of the above-mentioned organizations and individuals, where available, are set out hereinafter:

DONALD DUNCAN has been described in AFSC literature distributed at Seattle in January, 1967, as a former Master Sergeant and "Green Beret", who left the U. S. Army in September, 1965, after 10 years' service, including six years in the Special Forces and 18 months on active combat duty in Vietnam. Since his return to civilian life, he has been actively working and speaking against American military involvement in Vietnam. He has said: "The whole thing is a lie."

The AFSC is the social-outreach arm of the religious group known as the Society of Friends (Quakers).

SCEWV is characterized in the Appendix Section.

The FSP is characterized in the Appendix Section.

WHEN I RETURNED FROM VIETNAM I was asked, "Do you resent young people who have never been in Vietnam, or in any war, protesting it?" On the contrary, I am relieved. I think they should be commended. I had to wait until I was 35 years old, after spending 10 years in the Army and 18 months personally witnessing the stupidity of the war, before I could figure it out. That these young people were able to figure it out so quickly and so accurately is not only a credit to their intelligence but a great personal triumph over a lifetime of conditioning and indoctrination. I only hope that the picture I have tried to create will help other people come to the truth without wasting 10 years. These people protesting the war in Vietnam are not against our boys in Vietnam. On the contrary. What they are against is our boys being in Vietnam. They are not unpatriotic. Again the opposite is true. They are opposed to people, our own and others, dying for a lie, thereby corrupting the very word democracy.

MAJESTY
 SERGEANT DONALD DUNNAN left the United States September of 1965 after ten years of service, six in the Special Forces and eighteen months in Vietnam. While in Vietnam he received the Vietnamese Silver Star, the Combat Infantryman's Star, and the United States Army's Bronze Star.

Star and was the first enlisted man in Vietnam to be nominated for the Legion of Merit. Both nominations are still pending. He participated in many missions behind enemy lines in War Zone D, Quang Tri and the An Khe Valley. Last March he turned down the offer of a field commission to the rank of captain. Instead he left Vietnam on September 5, 1975 and received his honorable discharge four days later.

In April, 1966, a source advised that the members of the Seattle Branch, Socialist Workers Party (SWP), executed a statement of resignation from the National SWP, dated April 9, 1966, following which they referred to themselves as the Seattle Branch, SWP, (Unaffiliated), and temporarily adopted the name Freedom Socialist Party of Washington, aka Freedom Socialist Party (FSP). The group lead by RICHARD FRASER, aka Dick Fraser, Richard Kirk, Dick Kirk, formerly a member of the SWP National Committee, and his wife, CLARA FRASER, aka Clara Kaye, Organizer of the Seattle Branch, SWP, were known as the KIRK-KAYE Tendency. Their disagreement with the National SWP was over the questions of the Negro struggle, the colonial revolution, the Vietnamese War, regroupment, woman's emancipation, and party organizational principles.

The SWP has been designated by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to EO 10450

In July, 1966, this source advised that the above group and others held a convention on July 9, 1966, at their headquarters, Freeway Hall, 3815 - Fifth Avenue Northeast, Seattle, Washington, having issued a call to "all signers of the FSP Nominating Petition at the 1964 Nominating Convention and all revolutionary socialists who wished to help build the FSP."

In October, 1964, a second source advised that the name Freedom Socialist Party (FSP) of the State of Washington was used by the Seattle Branch, SWP, in its then current political campaign.

The first source further advised that at the convention on July 9, 1966, the group adopted the name FSP of Washington, became a membership organization, and appointed a committee pending the general organization of the group.

SEATTLE COMMITTEE TO END THE WAR IN VIETNAM (SCEWV)

At a public press conference called by representatives of the Seattle Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which was held in Seattle, Washington, on March 10, 1966, SCEWV spokesmen advised that the committee was an autonomous organization which determined its own policy, had been in existence for approximately two months and whose sole purpose was to contest U.S. Government policy in Vietnam. It was also stated that SCEWV would accept anyone who was opposed to the war in Vietnam on whatever basis the individual's opposition might rest and that it made no difference as to whether the person was a communist as long as he was opposed to the war in Vietnam. It was explained that all decisions on public policy had to be unanimous thus preventing any one faction from taking over the committee in any manner.

It was explained that the function of SCEWV was to present a range of alternatives to the present administration policy in Vietnam.

In August, 1966, a source furnished a document prepared for public consumption by SCEWV which stated that SCEWV was an organization of people who actively opposed the U.S. Government's policy in Vietnam and that anyone who opposed the war in Vietnam for whatever reasons was welcome. The document further reflected that people active in SCEWV represented a broad spectrum of political and religious beliefs and that all basic decisions were made by an elected steering committee which was representative of the various larger groups supporting SCEWV.

This document pointed out that the committee engaged in a number of activities designed to both publicize opposition against the war and to convince others that the war is wrong. These activities include public demonstrations as well as publicity through news media, leaflet distribution, neighborhood meetings and the sale of literature.

APPENDIX

A second source advised in September, 1966, that SCEWV headquarters were located at 4126 Roosevelt Way N.E., Seattle, Washington.

A third source advised in November, 1966, that SCEWV has no formal membership other than a steering committee which formulates SCEWV policy.

The third source as well as a fourth, and a fifth source advised between June, 1966, and September, 1966, that at various times during that period, past and/or present members of the Communist Party; Progressive Labor Party-Washington State; Seattle Branch, Socialist Workers Party; Freedom Socialist Party and Workers World Party, Seattle Branch were included as members of SCEWV steering committee.

CONCERNED YOUNG FRIENDS

"The Phoenix," a student newspaper, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., page one, dated December 2, 1966, carried an article captioned, "Young Friends Seek Funds To Aid Both Sides In War," which stated in part as follows:

"A GROUP of Swarthmore students has officially announced the opening of a drive to collect money for aid to all parts of Viet Nam. The group, calling itself 'Concerned Young Friends,' intends to send money to the Canadian Friends Service Committee, which buys medical supplies and sends them to both North and South Viet Nam.

"The collection is a direct result of a discussion led by BOB EATON on Sunday, November 20. EATON described several similar activities taken by Quakers, and encouraged Concerned Young Friends to start a drive.

"TREASURY LICENSE

"Because the sending of gifts to North Viet Nam is illegal under the Trading with the Enemy Act, Concerned Young Friends has applied for a license from the U.S. Treasury Department. In a memorandum to the group, the Treasury's Foreign Assets Control Division stated, 'Care has been taken to limit the amounts licensed. Only medical supplies may be sent... There exists no absolute guarantee that the supplies will be used only for civilian relief.

CONCERNED YOUNG FRIENDS

"Indeed, there is a risk that the supplies may not be so used. However, it is felt that it is necessary to take the risk under restricted conditions, in the hope of getting access to the American military personnel held prisoners in those areas. Obviously, this is a test. If the situation does not develop as we hope it will, then the policy of issuing these limited licenses will have to be reviewed."

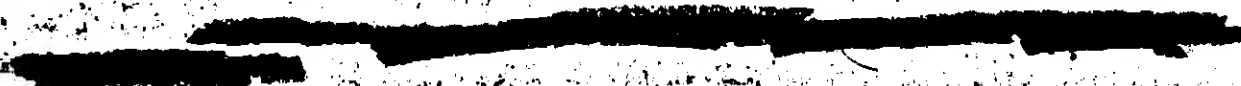

"OUR DUTY TO HELP"

"JOHN BRAXTON, one of the organizers of Concerned Young Friends, expressed the opinion that the government does not want to stir up an issue by refusing to grant licenses, but by giving this reason, it always has a justification for changing the policy."

"BRAXTON stated further that 'Concerned Young Friends does not recognize the right of a government to limit humanitarian aid. It is our right and our duty to help. This is not a political action. Our concern is for the suffering people of Viet Nam. If the Treasury Department does not grant us a license, we still plan to send the money.'"

"The penalty for such an act is imprisonment for up to ten years and/or a maximum fine of $10,000. In case a donor should have reservations about breaking the law, he will be able to choose to withdraw the money he gave if a license is not granted."

"In this way," said BRAXTON, "we hope to encourage as many people as possible to give..."

Banking Ban DisclosedJohnson Acts to Bar
Quaker Aid to HanoiSpecial to The Inquirer*

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Johnson Administration is quietly attempting to block efforts by Quakers—including several Philadelphia groups—to send medical supplies to the Vietcong and North Vietnam.

Frustrated in their attempts to mail medical goods directly to Hanoi or other Communist controlled countries, the Quakers are now trying to ship them via the Canadian Friends Service Committee.

A U. S. Treasury Department directive of last Oct. 28, which was disclosed Tuesday, ordered more than 14,000 banks across the country not to honor checks for the medical supplies made out to the Canadian Quaker group or to six officials of the organizations.

SUCCESS CLAIMED

But Philadelphia Quakers claim they have been very successful in getting money to Canada, despite the Administration's efforts.

"We knew about the Treasury directive, and many of our checks were refused or were sent by the banks to the Treasury Department," said Dr. Bertha Faust, a teacher at Girls' High School and secretary of A Quaker Action Group.

"Recently, however, most checks have been going through. But we are now asking people to send cash or postal money orders. Strangely enough, no attempt is made to block the money orders."

Dr. Faust said the money is used to purchase medical supplies, which are then sent to both North and South Vietnam. The supplies bound for Hanoi are carried free of charge by

A Treasury official said Tuesday the directive to the banks was issued after the Royal Bank of Canada, where the Canadian Quakers group maintains its account, refused to give "full cooperation" to Administration efforts to kill the funds.

"At first the Royal Bank cooperated with the United States Government and refused to accept the checks," said Dr. Faust. "But there was such an outcry of public opinion in Canada that the bank decided to accept the checks."

Philadelphia Quakers twice last fall attempted to mail medical supplies to North Vietnam, but the Philadelphia Post Office refused to accept them.

When the Quakers then tried to mail the packages to Canada, they were again blocked by postal authorities.

Dr. Faust said most of the contributors are Americans "whose consciences are burning because of what their country is doing in Vietnam."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D., Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a sharp critic of American policy in Vietnam, said he was "disturbed" by the Treasury's action.

"I had always thought of the Quakers as an organization dedicated to relieving human suffering from the stupidities of politicians," said Fulbright.

Fulbright said he was puzzled by the Treasury directive because of the Quakers' "long-time identification with humanitarianism and pacifism." He said he wrote to Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler last Friday asking about the Administration's action, but has not received a reply.

Stanley L. Sommerfield, chief counsel for the Office of Foreign Assets Control of the Treasury Department, said the Administration's action is aimed not only at choking off supplies to the North Vietnamese and Vietcong military, but also at prohibiting the Communists from using for military purposes any funds they would save on medical goods.

Sommerfield said anyone who sends aid to the enemy is subject to a fine of up to $10,000 and 10 years in jail.

[REDACTED] advised that on November 3-5, 1966, the Annual Meeting of the AFSC was held at the Friends Meeting House, 15th and Race Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. On November 5, 1966, the theme of the meeting was "Crisis and Opportunity". LOUIS SCHNEIDER was one of the speakers. He is Associate Executive Secretary for Program, AFSC. He briefly discussed, defined and interpreted over-all directions of AFSC efforts. He summarized AFSC projects in North Africa, India, East Africa and South America, mentioning that there were 65 programs, including those for diplomats, plus a variety of seminars and conferences.

[REDACTED] advised that as of September 1962, one LOUIS SCHNEIDER, 4418 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pa., was on the mailing list of the Civil Rights Congress (CRC).

The CRC has been designated by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The March 31, 1961, issue of "Focus", a publication of the AFSC, page 4, carried information that WILLIAM BARTON of the Friends Service Council, London, England, would accompany two leading AFSC officials to the Soviet Union in April (1961). The purpose of the trip was to confer with the Soviets on arrangements for School Affiliation Service Exchanges, the reciprocal student seminar to be held in the United States in the summer of 1961, a proposed exchange of leaders in the field of communications, reciprocal work camps, and the participation of Soviet diplomats in Conferences for Diplomats.

[REDACTED]

With regard to the AFSC, the following is noted:

[REDACTED] furnished a booklet captioned "An Introduction to the American Friends Service Committee". In substance, the booklet states that the AFSC is an outgrowth of the Religious Society of Friends, more commonly known as "Quakers"; that there are approximately 200,000 members world-wide of whom 125,000 are in the United States.

The AFSC began with a staff of two in 1917. There are now several hundred employed workers in the eleven regional offices and several other area offices from coast to coast, as well as in several foreign countries.

In the mid-1920's, the AFSC was incorporated, first in Pennsylvania and later in Delaware, with the broad purpose of engaging in religious, charitable, social, philanthropic and relief work in the United States and in foreign countries on behalf of the Religious Society of Friends.

The AFSC does not try to advance any particular political theory but believes that "non-violent attitudes and practices would create their own beneficent result within any system..."

In 1947 the Nobel Peace Prize was given jointly to the AFSC and its British counterpart, the Friends Service Council.

Many AFSC programs have evolved and continue to evolve with a sustained relationship to some element of our government, as for example, the International Cooperation Administration (now AID).

On September 27, 1966, [REDACTED] advised that the Peace Corps originated with the AFSC and was later used as a guide in setting up a United States Government sponsored Peace Corps.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] advised during the period 1955 to 1966 that officials of the AFSC had been in contact with officials of the CPEPD on matters concerning demonstrations, peace walks and other areas of mutual interest. CP officials have appeared at AFSC sponsored forums in which the Communist viewpoint was espoused. The sources also advised that AFSC officials, on various occasions, had been in contact with officials of Soviet and satellite diplomatic establishments in New York City and Washington, D. C., concerning student exchange programs; to obtain Soviet and iron-curtain country speakers for AFSC conferences and seminars; to arrange for seminars abroad, etc.

[REDACTED] felt that the AFSC in its utilization of pro-Communist and/or Communist leaders to speak or otherwise participate in AFSC sponsored functions, provided the Communists a sounding board for their propaganda and a platform from which they could indoctrinate young people.

A QUAKER ACTION GROUP

Reference is made to Philadelphia communications dated January 4, 1967 and February 6, 1967.

A source furnished on February 8, 1967 the following items setting forth information that the Quaker Action Group (QAG) early in February will send a small boat loaded with medical supplies from Japan to Haiphong. These supplies will be consigned to the Red Cross Society of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam for the relief of sickness and suffering caused by the bombs of the United States. The ship is scheduled to arrive in Haiphong Harbor in March.

1. Letter on the letterhead of A Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., 19107, dated February 4, 1967 from GEORGE WILLOUGHBY and LAWRENCE SCOTT, Co-Chairmen. This letter also has a list of the committee and consultants of the QAG. A copy of this letter is attached.

2. Pamphlet captioned "Friends Sail For Haiphong" sponsored by A Quaker Action Group. A copy of this item is attached.

No effort is being made at this time to characterize each of the committee and consultants; however, many are known to be members of the Society of Friends and/or the American Friends Service Committee. Many of these have previously participated in demonstrations protesting United States intervention in Vietnam and some have been arrested for civil disobedience in connection with such protests.

ENCLOSURE

THE SPIRIT OF OUR ACTION

A Quaker Action Group was formed in July 1966 by individual members of the Religious Society of Friends from many areas of the United States. We seek to act in a spirit of nonviolence and love, which we believe is an active force for the relief of suffering and the resolution of conflict.

The hour is late. It is an hour for plain speech in the presence of lies. It is an hour for compassion in the midst of callousness. It is a time for voluntary service alongside those who suffer the inhumanities of war. It is an hour to "let justice roll down as waters and righteousness as a mighty stream." By the voyage of Phoenix we pray that we may set in motion acts of peace which will tear down the barriers between the people of the United States and Vietnam.

A VOYAGE OF HEALING AND LIFE

IT IS NOT ENOUGH TO CALL UPON GOVERNMENTS TO ACT

WAR IS THE ENEMY

The war in Vietnam grinds day after day into the flesh and bones of people. Week after week the body-count is flashed around the globe. Electronic devices record the toll in Washington, Hanoi, Saigon, Seoul and Sidney.

Month after month untold numbers of men, women and children are changed from human beings into targets marked for destruction. No electronic device measures the joy and human warmth that was, nor the cold silence of death that is. Equally tragic is the blighting of the minds and hearts of the living by hatred and callousness.

The war in Vietnam must be ended: the maiming and slaughter must stop. Compassion and common sense must emerge: rebuilding and healing must begin.

WE OFFER MEDICAL AID AND SERVICE

Early in February A QUAKER ACTION GROUP will send a small boat loaded with medical supplies from Japan to Haiphong. The supplies will be consigned to the Red Cross Society of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam for the relief of sickness and suffering caused by the bombs of the United States.

Several of the crew members will be prepared to remain in Vietnam to engage in humanitarian service. We are requesting visas from the Democratic Republic of Vietnam for that purpose. It is our hope that they will be granted.

THE SHIP AND HER CREW

The owner and captain of the fifty-foot sailing ship, Phoenix, is Earle Reynolds. This will not be the first voyage for peace by Phoenix and its captain. In 1958 Earle Reynolds and his family sailed Phoenix into the forbidden Eniwetok Pacific area in protest against nuclear bomb testing.

In addition to Earle Reynolds and his wife, Akie, a Japanese citizen, there will be a crew of six, most of them from the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) from the United States and possibly other countries. The ship is scheduled to arrive in Haiphong harbor in March. The voyage will be openly and publicly undertaken by its international crew.

WHY WE ARE GOING

Help to Those Who Suffer

Since August 1966 we have been sending funds to the Canadian Friends Service Committee for its program of medical aid to the Red Cross Societies of North and South Vietnam and the National Liberation Front. We now want to deliver the supplies in person and stand beside those of our brothers who suffer the ravages of war. Other Quaker groups which we support are now sending supplies to and administering relief in South Vietnam. We recognize no boundaries in our moral obligation and desire to heal the sick and bind up the wounds of war.

Opposition to United States Policy and Actions

As citizens of the United States, loyal to the highest ideals of this country, we have a special responsibility to oppose the policy of the United States in Vietnam. War in Vietnam has now extended over more than two decades; its origins are mixed and diverse. Yet it is clear to us, and to many others in all parts of the world, that a tragic and decisive burden of guilt for the sabotage of the Geneva Agreements of 1954 and for the escalation of the war today rests heavily upon the United States.

All wars are cruel and inhuman. In this war the United States, with its arsenal of modern weapons of all kinds and massive airpower has brought renewed horror upon mankind. Day after day in Vietnam far more civilians are killed than soldiers. Napalm, phosphorus bombs, noxious gases and razor bombs have struck women and children as well as soldiers, while crop destroyers indiscriminately threaten villages with starvation.

Likewise, young men of the United States are being maimed and slaughtered in a war which has no legal or moral justification. The fruits of our labor are squandered; the ideals of our country are defiled.

Affirmation of the Oneness of Mankind

It is not enough to assess guilt and condemn aggression. What is needed is that the bombing and the slaughter in Vietnam stop. We call upon our government to take the initiative: halt all bombing, initiate a cease-fire, and launch a clearly stated, swiftly phased military withdrawal.

It is not enough to call upon governments to act. Even in the midst of war the oneness of humanity can be affirmed and lived by individuals and groups who care. We sail to Vietnam, not as partisans in war but as brothers to stand beside the people, responding to their need by offering peaceful service.

We must do even more than send aid and stand beside those who are being bombed. We shall increase action in the United States against the Vietnam policy of our government. Many of us have refused to pay taxes for war, refused to enter the armed services, and have worked in a variety of ways to protest.

Friends sail for Haiphong. Friends sail for Puritan Boston. Friends sail to the Sultan to witness to the Light. Friends sail to the Barbados, Barcelona, Algiers and the Gaza Strip. Three hundred years ago a fresh breeze of the Spirit blew in Midland England, and ordinary Friends of each generation have been sailing before that breeze.

Have you been frustrated in your desire to oppose the cruel and immoral policy of the United States in Southeast Asia? Do you want to help relieve the tragic suffering in Vietnam? ("Already He is there, and we actively move, in His tenderness, toward the sufferers"--Thomas Kelly). Do you yearn to affirm the unity of all mankind, by breaching the government-made wall of enmity, hate and slaughter? The Phoenix sailing may provide a modest breakthrough: the Spirit gives power to small things.

Friends have projects to relieve the suffering in South Vietnam. Through the American Friends Service Committee and the Canadian Friends Service Committee, many of us have contributed to that effort. Under United States Government restrictions and harassment, only limited aid has been extended by American Friends to those who suffer in North Vietnam.

The Phoenix has room for only ten people, but we all can join the voyage in a tangible way. In order to assure travel expense for the crew and medical aid cargo, A Quaker Action Group, through Friends on the East and West Coasts, and Middle West has borrowed a portion of the $30,000.00 needed to complete the project. We need your help, to pay these debts of faith, and complete this voyage of compassion.

Please make checks payable to Wilmer J. Young. (We cannot cash checks made to A Quaker Action Group, since the Treasury Department has blocked our bank accounts). Mail to A Quaker Action Group, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19107

WE AMERICANS DE-HUMANIZED?

I hope it's not so!

Hypnotized and tormented by the endless headlines, we try to shut out the reality of Vietnam. Whoever asked for this burden of Indo-China, anyway?

And yet, each of us is sanctioning warfare against civilians - through conviction or fear or apathy.

Can we live with ourselves, knowing that broiling adhesive Napalm is being thrown over children in our name?

What is keeping us from using our power to stop right now the agonizing horrors we are wreaking?

As a member of a Quaker Action Group, I urge you with all my heart to join us in a task of protest and succor.

The fifty foot ketch PHOENIX will sail from Tokyo to Haiphong in about two weeks, with a ton of medical supplies. Earle Reynolds, protester against nuclear testing in the Pacific in 1958, is the captain.

TWO CREW MEMBERS have already been sent Japan. Two more will leave soon. Newspapers and T.V. are taking an interest. Still 1,000 or more will be needed for medical supplies, and $1,000 for each crew member's round trip. And those who go will stake their

of the Ladies' Home Journal?

"The children have learned not to move, because moving hurts them more, but their eyes large and dark follow you.... When the hurt is unbear-their eyes talk for them."

The U.S. Treasury Department has interpreted MEDICAL RELIEF to all parts

MEDICAL AID, NOT TRADE

A few days after Lawrence Scott and George Willoughby, Co-Chairmen of A Quaker Action Group, met with State Department representatives in Washington to discuss validation of passports for the crew of Phoenix to visit North Vietnam, were informed that our Central Penn National Bank checking account had been frozen by order of the U.S. Treasury Department. This is the second AQAG bank account frozen by the government. We have received no explanation for this action from Washington. It appears that the government, without benefit of any judicial ruling, is treating the entire operation of A Quaker Action Group as a conspiracy against the Trading with the Enemy Act. To continue our work for peace despite these obstacles, we have decentralized the collection of funds and are operating the Philadelphia office largely on a cash basis. (See enclosed brochure on the voyage of Phoenix.)

Phoenix, however, will set sail on or about February 15. The boat has been overhauled recently; a new mast and a long-distance radio are being installed. Three crew members from this country have joined Earle and Akie Reynolds in Japan: Bruce Champney of Yellow Springs, Ohio, Phillip Drath of San Rafael, California, and Betty Boardman, of Madison, Wisconsin. Two more will be on the way as this newsletter is mailed - Bob Eaton of Philadelphia and Ivan Masser of Concord, Mass.

The project has been warmly received by Friends and other concerned people in Japan. A group of physicians in Hiroshima is undertaking to select and pack the medical cargo for Phoenix, and the Japanese Red Cross is giving valuable assistance.

THE UNITED STATES VS. MERCY

Meanwhile, the conflict in our own country between the claims of humanity and the requirements of the warfare state intensifies daily. The enclosed editorials from The Christian Century and The New Republic tell of the harassment of other Quaker groups and individuals, as well as A Quaker Action Group, by the U.S. government. After vainly waiting more than three months for the approval of its application for a license to send relief to Vietnam, New York Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends openly delivered $3,000 to the medical aid program of the Canadian Friends Service Committee on January 23. The U.S. Treasury Department is now auditing the bank accounts of numerous Quaker agencies in New York, including the Friends Burial Association. Evidently the Treasury Department is serious about crushing the "Quaker Underground!"

Last September five members of A Quaker Action Group met with officials of the Treasury, State and Commerce Departments in Washington who urged us to apply for a license to bind up wounds and heal the sick. (Three weeks later they had a license applications of other Quaker groups lying on their desks, and the applications are still there - unapproved.) They said they respected Quakers and saw we meant well. They did not want to hurt the Quakers of the United States, but would be forced to do so if we persisted in violating the Trading with the Enemy Act.

We were impressed that these officials were decent human beings - religious, good neighbors, family men and women. They were trapped in corporate evil just as good men were trapped in the machinery of the Nazi state only a generation ago. As a machine they serve demands conformity, and those who will not trim themselves must be prepared to face the penalties of outlaws.

Bombs and Balms

IF REPORTS we have read in the Los Angeles Times and the Toronto Daily Star are correct, the United States government repudiates scriptural injunctions about feeding the hungry enemy or in other ways ministering to him in his misery. In fact the Johnson administration not only refuses to involve itself in that kind of charity but also tries to hamper individual Christians and Christian institutions that try to obey the injunctions. The Times states that "the Johnson administration is quietly attempting to block donations by American Quakers to a Canadian Quaker group sending medical supplies to North Vietnam and the Vietcong."

In October the U.S. treasury instructed 14,000 U.S. banks not to honor checks payable to the Canadian Friends Service Committee or its officers for medical goods. The Star stated: "The U.S. government has forbidden Canadian subsidiaries of American drug companies to sell medical supplies to Canadian Quakers for shipment to North Vietnam. The regulation was quoted yesterday by Stanley Sommerfield, chief counsel for the Treasury department's Office of Foreign Assets Control. Sommerfield also hinted at possible severe retaliation against the Royal Bank of Canada for its refusal to cooperate in choking off funds to the Canadian Friends Service Committee of Toronto." American Quakers have been participating through Canadian Quakers in a worldwide effort to send medical supplies to both sides in the Vietnam war. Ross Flanagan, head of a Quaker action group in New York city, said at the refusal of American subsidiaries in Canada to sell medicines and bandages to Quakers has been "a hindrance: 'There seems to be an inadequate number of loyal Canadian companies willing to sell us.'" But U.S. government action makes it increasingly difficult for American Quakers to contribute to this project. "Even travellers' cheques," said Flanagan, "are not being honored in Canada. And we don't trust telegraph money orders."

By the time this is read a shipment of 640,000 malarial and antibiotic tablets will be on its way to North Vietnam despite U.S. government harassment—probably on a Soviet-bloc ship out of a Canadian port. This shipment will be divided three ways among the South Vietnam Red Cross and the Red Cross organizations of North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front. The United States attempt to stop such shipments is a reprehensible intrusion into the internal affairs of Canada and an intolerable repression of the Christian's right to obey the elementary commandments of his faith. The United States spends millions of dollars pouring scalding napalm on Vietnamese. If a few Christians want to obey their Christ by sending medicines to the wounded and the sick, they should be encouraged to do so—not threatened and harassed. The Quakers, it should be noted, do not send military supplies and secrets to the enemy. They send healing. Does this balm give aid and comfort to the enemy? Certainly. Does it to any extent hamper the U.S. war effort? Of course it does. If we let wounded and diseased Vietnamese die there will be fewer of them to kill later. Is this the only logic we Christians know, the only authority we obey? It is not.

Quaker Underground

The Johnson administration has been quietly at work trying to stop American Quakers from sending medicines to war victims in North and South Vietnam. This harassment began last fall when the Post Office Department instructed its offices across the country to turn away parcels of bandages the Quakers wanted to send to Canada, for relay to Vietnam. Most recently, the harassment has come from the Treasury Department which ordered American banks to block payment of checks made out to Canadian groups that send the supplies. Both the Treasury and the Post Office have acted after consulting with the State Department, which is wary lest these medicines be put to some military use against us.

During the summer of 1966, various Quaker organizations actively sought to aid victims of the war by sending either medical supplies or money to the Canadian Friends Service Committee in Toronto or to the International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva. The most common practice was to send money to the Canadian Friends who then would buy supplies, usually consisting of antimalarial or antibiotic pills. These were then sent in equal portions to the Red Cross representatives of South and North Vietnam and to the Viet Cong representative in Hanoi. The medicines were meant for noncombatants, and especially for women and children — the involuntary casualties of the war.

But to the administration, this modest humanitarian gesture by the Quakers was a plain violation of the Trading with the Enemy Act, a 1917 statute that is now interpreted as prohibiting commerce with North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. To get the medicines through without risking violation of the statute, the Quakers had to have a license from the Treasury Department, and a number of groups applied. In September, the government issued 8 or 10 licenses covering $10,000 worth of supplies and cash to be sent to the Canadian Quakers and the International Red Cross. At the time, this was described by the government as a "test" program to determine whether the medicines would be "misused," and more to the point, to see whether the Quaker representatives in Hanoi would have any luck in reaching American prisoners of war.

Since September, however, the government has not approved requests from Quaker groups to send some $30,000 to the Canadian Friends and the International Red Cross. Instead, the authorities have energetically done what they could to shut them up altogether. When ups of Quakers went to their local post offices to mail parcels of bandages to Canada. Postal clerks said this could not be allowed, because it would be dealing with the enemy. One Quaker sought to send bandages to New York instead, but a keen postmaster spotted this subterfuge and refused the package. Frustrated by the post office, the Quakers carried bandages up to Buffalo, N. Y., walked across the Peace Bridge, and after 90 minutes of negotiations with customs officials handed the bandages to Canadians. The Treasury meanwhile sealed off the bank account of the Quaker Action Group, which as a matter of course had refused to apply for a license to send money to Canada. These Quakers received a notice from their Philadelphia bank stating that their funds had been blocked on demand of the Treasury. North Vietnam had an "interest" in the account, the Treasury said by way of explanation. The account has remained frozen for over three months, which means the Quakers can't even use the money in it for administrative purposes. This extraordinary infringement on the right of a voluntary organization to dispose of its own funds represents a clear attempt to run them out of business. Margaret Schwartz, director of the Treasury Department's Foreign Assets Control section, told this journal that other accounts had been frozen as well, but she would not say which ones.

On October 23 the Treasury notified all US banks that they should refuse to honor checks drawn to the benefit of the Canadian Friends Service Committee, main officers of the committee, or for that matter, any check that was endorsed by the Canadian Friends. If these checks are spotted and blocked, the Treasury is notified. Mrs. Schwartz says the department then undertakes an investigation to determine whether the money was intended for the purchase of medical supplies to be sent to North Vietnam or the Viet Cong. In initiating this drive the Treasury hoped to have the cooperation of the Royal Bank of Canada, where the Canadian Friends keep an account. The Canadian bank refused to help, so the Treasury had to send out letters to 14,000 US banks alerting them.

A blocked check can be used as a form of constant harassment. For example, Mrs. Lee Maria Kleiss of Anola, Iowa, sent the Canadian Friends a check for $50 in September. This eventually came back and was rejected. The Treasury suggested Mrs. Kleiss apply for a license so she could send the money. She did so, but the license never was approved. Meanwhile, Mrs. Kleiss said, the bank has frozen $50 in her account. It can't be touched for any purpose.

In addition to stopping checks, the telegraph companies, according to Mrs. Schwartz, are expected to cooperate under the Trading with the Enemy Act by refusing to wire money to the Canadian Friends. The post office is not supposed to accept money orders for the Canadians. (For some reason these proscriptions have not got through, because the post office last week said it will send money orders and Western Union said it will wire funds.)

The Quakers have had experience in bypassing those temporal injunctions which they cannot in good conscience accept. They have formed a sort of underground for getting money through to Canada despite regulations. People drive their cars up to the border and hand over bundles of cash to their Canadian friends. Others get off airplanes and drop off packets of cash at the office of the Canadian Friends. Money is sent in travelers checks, by wire or money order. Sometimes US currency is changed into British pound notes and sent through the mails. David Newlands, the general secretary of the Canadian Friends, says his organization was receiving up to $1,000 a week on average from the United States, although the flow has slowed a bit since the first of the year. Since the Canadian Friends began shipping medicines and medical supplies last summer, Newlands says 640,000 antimalarial and antibiotics pills have been sent, along with lesser quantities of surgical equipment. The cargo is carried free to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong on Soviet ships. Shipments to the South go via Air Canada.

Last week the New York Yearly Meeting of 7,000 Quakers decided it was fed up waiting for a license to transmit $3,000 to the Canadian Friends, and that it would send the dollars whether or not the license came through in time for supplies to be landed aboard a Soviet ship leaving Montreal January 23. The New York Quakers had filed their application in October and spent their time ever since in nit-picking discussions with gentlemanly State Department lawyers.

The government's harassment has frightened away some people from contributing; others are anxious lest their blocked checks fall into the hands of the House Un-American Activities Committee. Joe Pool, the Texas congressman who is a member of the committee, got a bill approved by the House last session that would sentence people to jail for 20 years for sending any kind of materials to the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese. This act of lunacy never got to the floor of the Senate, but Pool has reintroduced it in the House, and the Quakers are not eager to be victimized by another of the committee's probes.

While the administration goes ahead in putting down this modest effort by the Quakers to relieve a little of the sufferings of war, the members of Congress say nothing. The right to dissent against the war has become too much of an embarrassment for most elected officials to publicly defend. We are entering a time when it is not only suspect but unlawful to put out a helping hand to people we injure by mistake.

Quaker Ship Sails To Pick Up Supplies, Await OK by Hanoi

The Philadelphia Quaker group sponsoring the journey of the ketch Phoenix to North Vietnam said Saturday the vessel had departed Tokyo Bay bound for Hiroshima and Hong Kong, where it will await further word from Hanoi.

The group has been communicating directly with Hanoi by cable from its Philadelphia office at 20 S. 20th st.

Lawrence Scott, spokesman for A Quaker Action Group, said the vessel departed the Tokyo area at 10 P.M. Philadelphia time Friday.

He said the seven-man crew, which includes a Quaker youth worker from Philadelphia and two women, would sail the single-masted craft first to Hiroshima to pick up medical supplies, and then to Hong Kong.

Scott said the money for the $10,000 worth of medical supplies came from Philadelphia. The supplies were selected and packaged in Hiroshima by a group of Japanese physicians, he said.

CABLE TO HANOI

After the supplies are loaded, the vessel will proceed to Hong Kong "and await further developments there," said Scott.

He explained that the Philadelphia group was communicating directly with Hanoi by cable and trying to convince the North Vietnamese "that we're willing to take these risks."

The Philadelphia group was informed by Dr. Vudinh Tung, president of the Vietnam Red Cross, earlier in the week that the vessel should not attempt to sail into Haiphong Harbor because of the danger of intense bombing in the Gulf of Tonkin area.

"We deeply appreciate the concern Dr. Tung feels for the safety of the Phoenix crew," said Scott. "We trust that the United States would not bomb a ship clearly marked as carrying humanitarian supplies."

He said the 50-foot vessel would probably be marked with red crosses and other designations carried by relief ships.

Scott said the action group and the crew of the vessel were fully aware that they were "in the midst of war and accidental bombings can occur."

"The Phoenix crew is prepared to take that risk," he said, adding, "We will be trying to convince the North Vietnamese of this. We hope they will welcome us when we arrive."

DELIVERY BY MARCH

Scott said the medical supplies would include antibiotics and penicillin. The group hopes to get them to North Vietnam by the middle of March.

Crew members include Dr. Earle L. Reynolds, 55, formerly of Antioch, O., owner of the ketch; Reynolds' Japanese wife, Akie, 25; Philip Drath, of San Rafael, Calif.; Mrs. Betty Bordman, 40, of Madison, Wis.; Horace Champney, 61, of Yellow Springs, O.; Ivan Masser, 49, of Concord, Mass., and Robert Eaton, 23, of Philadelphia.

SAILING EXPERIENCE

Eaton, a graduate of Swarthmore College, and Masser left together by plane for Japan a week ago.

Scott said Eaton, whose parents live in Annapolis, Md., was chosen for the venture because he possessed some sailing experience.

Philadelphia Quaker Sailing to Haiphong With Medicine

Philadelphia Quaker is among six American pacifists plan to sail aboard a ship from Japan tomorrow with $10,000 in medicine for Vietnam.

He is Robert Eaton, 22, of 4401 Pine st., a member of Quaker Action Group, which has headquarters at 20 S. 12th st. The Quaker Action Group is sponsoring the shipment of medical supplies.

The planned voyage would challenge official U. S. Vietnam policy on passports and taking cargo to the North Vietnamese.

Eaton has been active in demonstrating against U. S. involvement in Vietnam.

Mails Draft Card Back

Last Oct. 15, he mailed his draft card back to his local board in Annapolis, Md. He did this at a street corner demonstration in front of 128 N. Broad st., where nine Selective Service boards have their headquarters.

In December, 1965, Eaton was among 17 arrested by Springfield Township police during a demonstration outside the Boeing Co.'s Vertol plant in Morton, Delaware County.

The demonstration was led by the Philadelphia Committee for Nonviolent Action to protest the production of helicopters for use in the Vietnam war.

Eaton and his colleagues plan to make the trip to Haiphong, North Vietnam, aboard the yacht Phoenix, captained by Earle Reynolds, a Quaker. In 1958, Reynolds sailed the Phoenix 65 miles inside the U. S. Pacific Atomic test zone defying American restrictions.

George Willoughby, cochairman of Quaker Action Group, said Eaton is a young Quaker interested in the work of the organization, which was formed last July.

'Balance' Assistance

Willoughby said his organization is "trying to balance" assistance given by the American Friends to South Vietnam. He added:

"We are sending only medical supplies to relieve the suffering in North Vietnam; we are not sending cash."

"We want to see this war brought to an end as quickly as possible and at the same time bring an end to human suffering."

Willoughby said the money was raised by Quaker Action Group "from people all over the country."

Besides Reynolds, his Japanese wife and Eaton, others in the crew included Philip Drath, of San Rafael, Calif.; Ivan Nesar, of Concord, Mass.; Horace Champney, of Yellow Springs, Ohio, and Mrs. Betty Boardman, a Madison, Wis., housewife.

EASTER PEACE WALK

Phila. - Washington D.C. March 11-26

We want to share and witness to our convictions that the whole war system (the arms races, the draft, the war industries...) and the cult of violence it produces, is unjust and insane wherever it is found. We want to say that this society of inequality and survival by terror can only lead to disaster. We must have the courage to explore nonviolent means to social change.

"People are too rapidly resigned to fatality. They are too ready to believe that, after all, nothing but bloodshed makes history progress...if he who bases his hopes on human nature is a fool, he who gives up in the face of circumstances is a coward." - Albert Camus

We must have the courage to reflect in the face of murder and to make a choice.

Committee was impelled to make appeal, not only because of the ening tragedy of the war itself, but because of its dangerous impact on ial aspects of American life. As the in Vietnam escalates, its relentless ands curtail the struggle in the ed States against poverty, racial listed in the appeal:

We are going to draw heavily on the modest resources of the American Friends Service Committee and are taxing ourselves individually in order to do more for peace in Vietnam.

Though we directly oppose the war itself, we will do all we can to increase our humanitarian efforts. We have persons working now among war sufferers in South Vietnam, and we seek to do likewise in North Vietnam and in territories held by the National Liberation Front.

We intend to work vigorously to strengthen freedom in America and will encourage those who are conscientiously impelled to withhold their support of the war in Vietnam.
We will work to renew faith in a United Nations whose present weakness is a tragedy for all men.

we are able those young men who cannot conscientiously accept war service in Vietnam.
6. We will support our government in all efforts to use our national brains and resources peaceably to meet

7. We will encourage and work with religious groups throughout America to end this war.
8. As citizens we will in deep religious conviction visit and encourage others to visit officers of the Administration and members of Congress to explore the case for withdrawal from Vietnam. We also will call upon our fellow Americans to ready the national conscience for rebuilding in Vietnam what our nation is now engaged in destroying, with the same intensity of purpose and commitment of resources as are now lavished upon the war.
9. We will encourage public discussion of applying the concept of conscientious objection to violation of international law and crimes against humanity. As individuals and as an organization we will explore the implication for ourselves of this kind of extension and examine its relationship to such questions as conscientious refusal to pay taxes for war.

Family planning: the invisible program er paper-strewn desk in Philadelphia, Lorraine Cleveland directs a million-dollar program that most "nothing" under its own name. The Service Committee has a long history of working with local agencies encouraging people to set up their organizations, but Lorraine carries the step further. She works through AFSC programs.

Conventional as it seems, and as it grows naturally from the Committee's view of family planning as just one way among many for people to gain more control over their lives. Around the world, the Committee's community development programs include family planning in their plans. Because their concern for the welfare of the people is widely recognized and because family planning is included as part of broader programs, confusion and misunderstanding are reduced.

In community women raise the issues for themselves. The Committee's community service projects develop to meet the needs expressed by the people, and women everywhere want to know how to keep their families in balance and their incomes. For example, Committee staff members were recently asked by the wives of farm workers for help housing program in Chesapeake County, Pennsylvania, for assistance in getting birth control information.

Committee staff members get this kind of response; they first look to see what local resources there are. If the local resources are inadequate, they find ways to start and expand them. If there are resources, they consider how a clinic can be started, and under whose auspices. The Service Committee does not operate any family planning clinics nor is it committed to a particular birth control technique.

The Committee touches the lives of people in many situations other than community development. Often these are opportunities that would not be available to a family planning agency. An example was an AFSC conference for diplomats in Clarens, Switzerland, which devoted sessions to the population problem using study material provided by the family planning program.

Latin America and Africa

The major emphasis of our family planning work in Latin America is on training doctors. Through our efforts, about 40 doctors a year from seven Latin-American countries are trained in the techniques of family planning.

In Africa two doctors serve the Committee as part-time consultants. One of them has recently taken soundings in several countries where we hope to assist with training of doctors as we are doing in Latin America. Part of the family planning budget is used to send African doctors and government officials to international conferences on family planning. We hope to extend this work with seminars and establish libraries on family planning in several hospitals in Africa.

India and Hong Kong

The staff of the Service Committee's urban community development program in Baroda, India, has stimulated the establishment of the Baroda Committee on Family Planning, whose membership includes the president of the Baroda Municipality and other responsible citizens. In 1941 he received an A.B. from that institution, and in 1944 an M.D. from the University of Cincinnati. After a year's internship at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center he took a position in the Department of Physiology of Cornell Medical School.

From Cornell he went to Syracuse University Medical School, where he taught from 1946 to 1949. A two-year postdoctoral fellowship in biochemistry took him to Oxford University in England from 1949 to 1951, as a Scholar in the Medical Sciences of the Markle Foundation. Returning to the United States, he was made chairman of the Department of Physiology of the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, a position he held until 1959, when he accepted his current post at Rochester.

Throughout his career Dr. Lotspeich has concentrated his research on kidney function, the regulation of body fluid balance, the mechanism of insulin action, and the growth hormone of the pituitary gland. He is the author of 45 papers in various scientific journals and of a book, Metabolic Aspects of Renal Function.

Science and the humanities

A lifelong interest in the interrelations of science and the humanities led Dr. Lotspeich to teach a course for freshmen on "A Tragic View of Science" and to write a book for teenagers called How Scientists Find out.

The new AFSC executive has traveled widely, often combining professional duties with his interest in the Society of Friends. He visited French Friends under the auspices of the Friends World Committee in 1955, Friends of East Africa Yearly Meeting in 1964 and Friends in Japan in 1965.

He is married to the former Sylvia Howard Taft of Cincinnati, a graduate of Vassar. The Lotspeichs have three children—Sylvia, 22, an Oberlin graduate; Charles, 19, a junior at Harvard; and Stephen, 13, a freshman in high school. Their son Charles is married to the former Laurie Macdonald of Boston and has one son, Christopher.

CULTURE TRAVELS A DUSTY ROAD

BY

by Beth Blinford—photographs by Paul Buck

SCENE was South Jersey on a hot summer afternoon. Heat waves from the asphalt highway as a white bus rolled along toward a migrant labor camp. Children pickets in the fields stopped to wave to the driver. The bus turned into road and came to a stop at the row of buildings. As the driver opened the door sand and dirt blew past the open spaces between the dilapidated shacks. A little boy ran toward the bus holding a tin can with a stick. In the next moment the driver was surrounded by children, reaching to grab the driver, hanging onto his arm, tagging along behind him.

The Children's Caravan bus was a motion picture theater on wheels—one of several traveling in four states this past summer to bring education to migrant labor areas. In South Jersey the bus visited six camps a week providing children and adults with a program of movies, books and games. The Office of Economic Opportunity furnished the bus and the American Friends Service Committee provided the staff.

The minute the bus arrived in camp the children rushed to help get everything set up so the movies could begin. They carried the long electric cable to the portable generator and cleaned the ground around the bus.

While all this activity was taking place a volunteer set up little tables outside, by the bus, so the younger children could draw. The older children played with the volleyball while others raced to wash their hands at the pump so they could read the books.

The first hour of movies was for the younger children. The movies, based on good children's books, were chosen for their artistic quality as well as their educational value. They told of the beauty of nature, the brotherhood of man, the joy of being able to read, or the value of good habits. This afternoon the children watched one film showing the beauty of rain, one on wild horses, and one called Little Tim and the Brave Sea Captain. They sat enraptured, afterwards telling what they liked best, asking questions and acting out the exciting parts.

A sudden shower toward evening forced the workers in from the fields and turned the camp grounds into a sea of mud. Shirts over their heads for protection, older children and adults lined up to see the last movies of the day.

Many of the movies left a deep impression on the viewers. Almost everyone liked The Brotherhood of Man, a film pointing out how religions are alike in their message of brotherhood. "I'll never forget that movie," one old man said. "It put windows in my mind."

Donors Take Advantage of Deferred Giving

AFSC contributors are discovering that plans for deferred giving can assure them a role in the future work of the Service Committee without reducing their income. Their after-tax income may even increase.

Those entering into a Life Income Contract, for example, continue to receive an income for life equivalent to the earnings of the gift. At the same time they get an income tax deduction in the year of the gift. Moreover, they can donate securities that have increased in value without paying a capital gains tax. If the donor wishes, his gift can become a part of AFSC's Consolidated Investment Fund, which has some of the growth possibilities of a mutual fund.

Donors preferring a fixed annual income can make an annuity gift and receive a semiannual or quarterly income for life that is based on their age and the amount given. Tax savings are possible here too.

These and other plans for deferred giving are described in a brochure, Today, Tomorrow and Beyond, available from the national and regional offices of the Service Committee.

The day care center is the first step in the development of a coordinated refugee program in that area, which is about 200 miles south of the border of North Vietnam. About 87,000 refugees are living there, and 45,000 of them live in temporary camps or have no housing.

Young People Arrive

Two young men and a young woman have arrived in Saigon to begin two years with the Service Committee's Youth Services Program. They are studying Vietnamese in preparation for work in Vietnamese social agencies, probably social welfare centers in cities. Two or three more volunteers will arrive in January.

Money Sent for North and South Vietnam, NLF

The American Friends Service Committee has donated $2,000 to the Canadian Friends Service Committee and $4,000 to the International Committee of the Red Cross in Geneva for the purchase and shipment of medical supplies for war victims in both North and South Vietnam, including areas held by the National Liberation Front. A license to send these funds was issued to the AFSC by the U.S. Treasury Department.

According to [REDACTED] the AFSC in his opinion is "definitely a red front." He said that for years it has been a tactic of the Communist Party to use pacifists and pacifism in the United States to offset the U.S. military.

He said that the five year meeting of Friends which includes all yearly meetings of the Society of Friends in which the last meeting was held at Earlham College in Indiana denounced the AFSC, as a leftist group. [REDACTED] said that most Quakers are not in favor of the AFSC activities and that the AFSC consistently used Biblical and Quaker quotations to support and justify their activities which year after year are against United States policies and pro-Communist.

According to [REDACTED] the AFSC collects from six to ten million dollars a year and only about one million of this comes from Quaker sources; the rest is from red supporters. [REDACTED] had no definite proof of this but claims the AFSC has never given a decent accounting for the money taken in.

[REDACTED] mentioned that many of the high figure-heads of the AFSC are well known and respected Quakers but nevertheless fools and duped into supporting the Communist cause.

Chief of Police

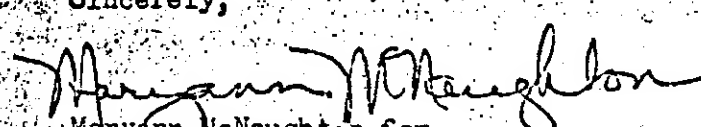

Dear Friend,

On Saturday, March 11, 1967, a group of pacifists will begin a walk for peace from Philadelphia to Washington-D.C. via Baltimore (down U.S. Route 1) and Frederick, Md. We will hold a day long vigil at Fort Detrick in Frederick and plan a direct action project such as leafleting or vigiling in Washington on Easter. We will talk with people in towns and cities on our way, and will conduct public meetings in the evenings. The Walkers will distribute leaflets to passers-by.

Enclosed is a Call which tells our route. There will be a car accompanying the Walk, carrying general supplies and to help in case of need. The car will generally precede the Walk into each town.

Our Discipline (enclosed) is nonviolent and walkers have agreed to abide by it. It states our position on civil disobedience and nonviolence. We hope this information will be helpful to you. If you have questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact us or speak with coordinators when we reach your area.

Sincerely,

Maryann McNaughton for

[REDACTED]

Discipline

Easter Peace Walk from Philadelphia - Washington D.C.

We request that all Walk participants read this carefully. Anyone in sympathy with the purposes and policies of this Walk is very welcome to join it for any or all of the time.

1. Our primary purpose is to present a witness against violence. In no case will we respond to provocation with physical or verbal abuse. We should try to speak to the best in others, rather than seek to exploit their weakness to what may seem to be our advantage.
2. With full knowledge of the importance of public relations to this Walk, anything which could be judged as illegal or immoral cannot be tolerated during the Walk. If cases arise when individuals feel they cannot comply with group decision, their recourse is to leave the Walk. Unity of action is necessary for the success and safety of this walk. If group decision cannot be reached on some issue, walk coordinators shall make policy decisions.
3. Civil disobedience cannot be officially sponsored by the Walk. However, individuals are free to carry out their concerns as their consciences demand. They must make clear, though, that their action speaks only for themselves and should not divert the entire attention of the Walk.
4. Please refer all officials, police, etc. to the Walk coordinators. If questioned by the press, be sure to first emphasize that you speak only, again, for yourself. Statements of formal group policy can be made only by the coordinators or someone they designate. Thank you.

EASTER PEACE WALK

Phila.-Washington D.C. March 11-26

17 We want to share and witness to our convictions that the whole war system (the arms races, the draft, the war industries...) and the cult of violence it produces, is unjust and insane wherever it is found. We want to say that this society of inequality and survival by terror can only lead to disaster. We must have the courage to explore nonviolent means to social change.

"People are too rapidly resigned to fatality. They are too ready to believe that, after all, nothing but bloodshed makes history progress...if he who bases his hopes on human nature is a fool, he who gives up in the face of circumstances is a coward." - Albert Camus

We must have the courage to reflect in the face of murder and to make a choice.

10? Walk sponsors are Students for Nonviolence, the Philadelphia Committee for Nonviolent Action, the Philadelphia Fellowship of Reconciliation, and the Middle Atlantic Region of the American Friends Service Committee.

Anyone in sympathy with the purposes of the Walk is invited to JOIN THE WALK ANY OR ALL OF THE TIME !

04? The Walk will go from Phila. to Baltimore down Route 1, then to the 1,300 acre Government center for biological warfare research at Ft. Detrick, Frederick, Md. After vigiling there, the Walk will go on to Washington, arriving the night before Easter. We will leaflet and speak with passers-by in towns and cities along our way, and invite them to meet with us for evening discussions. Our nights will be spent at Friends Meeting houses and churches on our route.

Tentative Schedule:

CHARACTERIZATION OF ORGANIZATIONS

COMMITTEE TO SECURE JUSTICE FOR MORTON SOBELL

"Following the execution of atomic spies Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, in June, 1953, the 'communist campaign assumed a different emphasis. Its major effort centered upon Morton Sobell,' the Rosenbergs' codefendant. The National Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case - a communist front which had been conducting the campaign in the United States - was reconstituted as the National Rosenberg - Sobell Committee at a conference in Chicago in October, 1953, and 'then the National Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell in the Rosenberg Case'..." (Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications," dated December 1, 1961, issued by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, page 116.)

In September, 1954, the name "National Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell" appeared on literature issued by the Committee. In March, 1955, the current name, "Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell," first appeared in literature issued by the Committee.

The Address Telephone Directory for the Borough of Manhattan, New York City, as published by the New York Telephone Company on April 14, 1966, lists the Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell" (CSJMS) as being located at 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York.

MAY 2 MOVEMENT

A source advised on March 3, 1965, as follows:

The May 2 Movement (M2M) formerly known as the May 2 Committee was organized on March 14, 1964, at New Haven, Connecticut, by a group of young people participating in a symposium "Socialism in America" being held at Yale University. The original aim of the M2M was to plan and execute a demonstration in New York City on May 2, 1964, demanding withdrawal of United States troops from Vietnam.

The M2M was dominated and controlled by the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) and had for its aim and purpose the embarrassment of the United States Government by meetings, rallies, picketing demonstrations and formation of university level clubs at which a Marxist-Leninist oriented approach and analysis was taken of United States domestic and foreign policies. This source advised on May 19, 1965, that the headquarters of the M2M was 640 Broadway, New York City, Room 307.

A second source advised on February 9, 1966, that the M2M was officially dissolved as an organization on February 6, 1966, at a meeting held on the same date in New York City, by the leadership of M2M and the Progressive Labor Party.

PHILADELPHIA SOBELL COMMITTEE

Literature issued by the Committee on the dates indicated reflects the following variations of the names of the Philadelphia Committee which have been utilized:

- 2/11/52 Philadelphia Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case, Post Office Box 805, Philadelphia, Pa.
- 10/14/53 Philadelphia Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg-Sobell Case, Post Office Box 805, Philadelphia, Pa.
- 10/19/53 Philadelphia Rosenberg-Sobell Committee, Post Office Box 805, Philadelphia, Pa.
- 7/8/54 Philadelphia Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell in the Rosenberg Case, Post Office Box 805, Philadelphia, Pa.

On March 14, 1956 a source advised that the Philadelphia Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell in the Rosenberg Case was being disbanded because of a lack of funds and a lack of activity on the part of the Committee.

On April 8, 1958 this source advised that on April 7, 1958 a meeting was held in Philadelphia to re-establish this committee, and the committee would be called the Philadelphia Sobell Committee.

A second source advised on May 20, 1966 that the Philadelphia Sobell Committee continues to operate as a local affiliate of the Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell. It has no officers; however, JEAN FRANTJIS serves as the leader of any activities in Philadelphia. These activities have been limited to the holding of occasional meetings for the purpose of raising funds to help free Morton Sobell from prison.

NATIONAL GUARDIAN

The "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications", revised and published as of December 1, 1961 by the Committee on Un-American Activities, U. S. House of Representatives, documents the publication "National Guardian" as follows:

"Established by the American Labor Party in 1947 as a 'progressive' weekly * * *. Although it denies having any affiliation with the Communist Party, it has manifested itself from the beginning as a virtual official propaganda arm of Soviet Russia."

SUBJECT: Propaganda Released to High School

1. The attached Notice was distributed on Tuesday, 14 March 1967, in the vicinity of Baltimore City College, a high school of the Baltimore City Schools. The group making distribution were located at the intersection of 33d Avenue and The Alameda for approximately one hour beginning at 11:30 a.m. None of those distributing the Notice were identified as members of the student body. The group apparently consisted of about a dozen persons, both male and female, and were in the teenage bracket. There were two or three adults in control of the group.

2. During the time period noted above, the junior and senior classes complete their school day and are replaced by incoming freshman and sophomore students.

3. The general attitude of the students, while curious, verged from unfriendly to hostile. One incoming student took a copy of the Notice directly to the school office. It is alleged that the Principal and Vice Principal and several members of the faculty went at once to the point of distribution to disperse the group passing out the Notice. It is alleged that the proper authorities at school headquarters of the Baltimore system were immediately notified but took no further action in this matter.

4. The consensus of opinion among the student body and most of the faculty was of outrage and anger.

High School Students:

We are here at your school today because we want to tell you something that you probably don't know: IF YOU ARE OPPOSED TO PARTICIPATION IN WAR AND ARE SINCERE IN YOUR BELIEFS, YOU CAN REGISTER UNDER THE LAW AS A CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR. YOU CAN ACTUALLY SERVE TWO YEARS AS A CIVILIAN DOING IMPORTANT WORK IN ONE OF A LARGE NUMBER OF SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS THAT BRING HELP TO PEOPLE IN NEED AT HOME AND ABROAD. YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE DRAFTED INTO KILLING AND POSSIBLY BEING KILLED IN VIETNAM.

We are not here because we like to stand out on the sidewalk and pass out leaflets. As a matter of fact, we hate it. It is embarrassing--and some people think that those who do it are fanatics or unpatriotic or both.

We are here because we are patriotic. We love our country; we don't want to see young people killed or made killers in a war that should never have begun. We don't want to see you or your brothers go off to this senseless war that might be ended quickly if the United States would stop bombing the North and would let the North government know that it is truly ready to negotiate (with the National Liberation Front in the South, as well as with Hanoi in the North).

And we are here because we love humanity. We will oppose in every way we can this war that is bombing and maiming and burning thousands of innocent peasants every day: this war that kills ten Vietnamese civilians in South Vietnam for every one military combatant killed there (Church World Service statistics: The Sun, p. 1, October 25, 1966.)

What can you do? If you are of draft age, you can consider being a conscientious objector: one who works and will suffer for peace and brotherhood, but not for killing. Also, you can inform yourself about the war and can join in efforts to end it. For information contact:

DAVID APPROACHES GOLIATH - NONVIOLENTLY THAT IS

The Phoenix is now sailing from Hiroshima to Hong Kong, after loading 100 medical kits (valued at $100 each) assembled by Hiroshima physicians. After a stop at Hong Kong it will set sail for Haiphong, in hope of arriving there about March 25.

The Chairman of the North Vietnamese Red Cross has warned us of the risks to the Phoenix from the bombing of Tonkin Gulf by U.S. planes and ships. He has urged us not to take those risks, but his cables and subsequent person to person communication with Hanoi government representatives have been friendly, and we have reason to believe that the Phoenix will be received if it gets to Haiphong.

Will the U.S. government allow this shipment of humanitarian aid to go through the Seventh Fleet? We do not know. We have openly informed the State Department of our voyage and officials have indicated an interest in the route and markings of the Phoenix.

MARCH 18 - SUPPORT THE PHOENIX

On Saturday, March 18, about the time we hope the Phoenix will be setting out from Hong Kong to Haiphong, the enclosed Statement of Concern will be delivered to President Johnson and a press conference scheduled. Many will go to Washington that day for a witness of concern at the White House from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

We know that you, too, will want to give visible support to the Phoenix as it begins the last lap of its journey. Rally your friends for public witness at a U.S. Government building, civic square, or some other prominent place in your community. Notify the press of your action and hold a public press conference. We would like to hear about your plans too.

Please have your friends sign the Statement of Concern and return it to us before March 18.

THANKSGIVING - PRAISE - PETITION

Many of you have contributed liberally. As a result we have been able to keep our bills paid and have begun to repay some of the $11,000 in loans which were necessary for the launching of the Phoenix. We still owe about $8,000. If you have not contributed, or can help more, make checks payable to one of the Assistant Treasurers named in our brochure, or to Wilmer J. Young. (Do not make checks payable to A Quaker Action Group, since we cannot have a safe account in that name.)

LATE NEWS ON MEDICAL AID

Letter from Hanoi. The Canadian Friends Service has received a letter from the North Vietnamese Red Cross dated January 9, 1967 verifying the safe arrival of the CFSC's September 9 shipment of medical supplies and requesting that agency "to transmit our sincere thanks to all those who donated these gifts." Subsequent CFSC relief shipments have recently been traced with the help of the Soviet Red Cross and are now confirmed as being en route to Hanoi. To date no notification of receipt or expression of appreciation has been received from the Red Cross in South Vietnam.

Treasury Denies All Licenses. In our last newsletter we reported on the action of New York Yearly Meeting which had waited some three months for approval of its application for a license to contribute to the CFSC program. On February 27 the United States Treasury Department announced that it will deny all applications to send humanitarian relief to the Red Cross groups in North Vietnam and the NLF controlled areas of South Vietnam. Officials in Washington revealed that approximately $60,000 in license applications was pending at the time of this decision. The stated reason for this embargo is that Hanoi has refused permission to foreign relief agencies to supervise the distribution of supplies "to be sure they went to civilians."

Widespread Concern. A number of Monthly Meetings and many individuals have sent contributions to the medical aid program of the Canadian Friends Service Committee. CFSC has received over $25,000 from U.S. contributors since last fall. One midwest Meeting is opening a bank account in Canada.

New England Yearly Meeting, Baltimore Yearly Meeting and others whose license requests have been refused are now weighing what action they should take.

On March 25 and 26 an Interfaith Pilgrimage for Peace is being planned by individual Canadian and American Friends, members of the FOR and other concerned persons who wish to join in silent, signless witness at the Canadian-American Peace Bridge near Buffalo, New York. Some may carry relief parcels and contributions across the bridge. (Further details from Kathy Johnson, 1194 S. Country Club Drive, Schenectady, New York 12309.)

Canadian Developments. Recent efforts by the U.S. Treasury Department to curtail American involvement in the Canadian Friends Service Committee Medical Aid Program have precipitated charges of U.S. interference in Canada's fiscal and economic affairs. Most recently the President of the Royal Bank of Canada said in reply to renewed Treasury threats against his institution, "We are still not the 51st state!" Prime Minister Pearson has donated one of his celebrated bow ties to a Quaker auction in support of the CFSC's Vietnam relief program.

The next shipment of relief to Vietnam will include 200 first aid kits especially designed for Vietnamese villages, as well as 225,000 anti-biotic tablets. We understand that this shipment is scheduled to leave Montreal in late March. Collection cans, flyers and periodic reports describing the CFSC relief effort are available by writing directly to Canadian Friends Service Committee, Vietnam Aid Program, 60 Lowther Avenue, Toronto 5, Ontario, Canada.

As citizens of the United States we are profoundly disturbed by the bombing of civilians in Vietnam by the United States' armed forces. We noted your statement of December, 1966 with reference to civilian casualties: "We regret to see those losses and we do everything we can to minimize them, but they do occur in North Vietnam as they do in South Vietnam. . . . I am concerned with casualties in South Vietnam and North Vietnam and I wish all of our people would be equally concerned."

To us, the undersigned citizens, this small cargo of medical supplies symbolizes the concern and compassion which millions of Americans feel for the many Vietnamese who suffer from the United States' bombing. By the sailing of the Phoenix to Haiphong, a small token of your wish for concern on the part of the American people can be realized, and a large outpouring of compassion from American citizens will be inspired.

Quaker Group Raps 'Freeze' of Funds for North Vietnam Aid

By MARY G. LARKIN
Of The Inquirer Staff

A Quaker organization which has been sending medical supplies to North Vietnam announced on Monday that the U. S. Treasury Department had put a "freeze" on its accounts at a local bank.

The organization, A Quaker Action Group, said it received no notification from the Government on why an order was issued to "hold" its checking account with the Central Penn National Bank. The account contains about $900, a spokesman reported.

VIGOROUS PROTESTS

George Willoughby, chairman of the group, said: "Apparently they (the government) interpret our traditional Quaker concern to assist all who suffer in time of war as trading with the enemy."

Willoughby also reported that a similar "freeze" was ordered last September by the Treasury Department on an $800 account at another Philadelphia bank. The money is still being withheld, despite vigorous protests from the Quaker organization.

JUST ISN'T TRUE

The spokesman denied any activities that might be interpreted as trading with the enemy.

"This just isn't true," he said. "We are engaged in sending relief to all groups in Vietnam, not as partisans in war, but as brothers in need."

Willoughby said the freeze will not affect his organization's efforts. He said they will continue to send supplies through the Canadian Friends Service Committee in Toronto.

The ship "Phoenix" and its owner Earle Reynolds will soon set sail again—this time on a voyage from Tokyo to Haiphong on behalf of A Quaker Action Group. It will carry a load of medical supplies consigned to the Red Cross Society of North Vietnam for the relief of suffering caused by United States bombing. (On the first voyage of compassion by the Phoenix, in 1958, when Earle Reynolds and his family sailed into the Eniwetok area of the Pacific in protest against nuclear-bomb testing, the boat was stopped and seized by the U. S. Navy.)

On board the Phoenix, in addition to Earle Reynolds and his wife, who is a Japanese citizen, will be a crew of six Quakers from the United States and other countries. Since the shipping lanes to Haiphong are open, no difficulty is anticipated in carrying out the voyage. Several crew members will be prepared to remain in North Vietnam to engage in humanitarian aid to the suffering civilian population; visas for this purpose have been requested from the Democratic Republic of Vietnam.

In undertaking the voyage of the Phoenix, A Quaker Action Group reaffirms its desire to open the way for long-term Quaker assistance to the victims of war in North Vietnam as well as in South Vietnam. "Open the Gates of Mercy," AQAG's brochure on the proposed voyage, gives details of the mission and describes the current situation in regard to obtaining licenses to send relief funds through either the International Red Cross or the Canadian Friends Service Committee. 640,000 capsules of antibiotics and antimalarial drugs were sent by the Canadian Friends Service Committee on January 23 to the Red Cross of North and South Vietnam and of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front. The medicines were bought with money contributed by Sunday schools, college student organizations, and Quakers in both the United States and Canada. The total number of capsules sent since early December now has come to more than ten million.

N. Vietnamese Cause Just, Says Returning Quaker Aide

A representative of the American Friends Service Committee, just back from a two-week trip to Hanoi, said this afternoon that the U. S. would be better off if all Vietnam were under Red control.

Saying that American status would improve if American armed forces were withdrawn, Russell Johnson, of Cambridge, Mass., told a press conference here:

"If all Vietnam had a Communist government it would be less evil for us and the Vietnamese than the evil we are in right now."

Johnson made his remarks at a press conference at the committee's headquarters, 160 N. 15th st.

A Strong Case

He said he felt the North Vietnamese have "a strong case" against this country.

Johnson showed reporters two anti-personnel bombs of the type allegedly dropped by American warplanes in civilian areas. He said he saw an 11-year-old girl in a hospital; she was paralyzed from her waist down by what he was told was a bomb wound.

Johnson said Voice of America broadcasts quoting President Johnson as saying the U. S. is interested in bombing only steel and concrete, and not civilians—embitter the North Vietnamese, who know of friends who have been injured.

Innocent Victims

He called North Vietnam a well-organized country, resilient to bombing attacks. The inhabitants, he said, support their government, which they feel is "a government of equality." In their view, Johnson asserted, they are innocent victims of American aggression.

"Justice," he said, "is almost entirely on their side."

He quoted them as referring to the South Vietnamese as "our brothers" and as aiming for one unified country.

Johnson went to Hanoi to help arrange for a medical mission. He said it was too early to tell if he was successful, but predicted the North Vietnamese would be more likely to accept medical supplies than medical personnel.

Quakers Hail Mission Ship's Arrival in Japan

Word of the arrival of the 50-foot ketch Phoenix and its crew of six men and a woman at Hiroshima, Japan, to take on medical supplies for North Vietnam donated by Philadelphia's Quaker Action Committee was greeted with joy Friday by members of the Friends Racial Relations Committee.

Lawrence Scott, director of the Racial Relations Committee, said he talked by telephone with Mr. Earle L. Reynolds, 59, owner and skipper of the Phoenix.

ALL IN GOOD HEALTH

Dr. Reynolds said that all members of the crew, which includes Robert Easton, 23, a Philadelphia staff member of the Racial Relations Committee, are in good health and strong spirits. A storm made heavy sailing in the final lap of the voyage from Tokyo.

Philip Drath, a member of the volunteer crew, said Dr. Reynolds "had to do much of the work" since "not all of us are sailors."

The Phoenix dropped anchor in Hiroshima Harbor during the night under adverse weather conditions.

MEDICAL SUPPLIES

Scott was informed in his phone conversation with Dr. Reynolds the ship will remain at Hiroshima over the weekend, loading aboard $10,000 worth of medical supplies.

Future plans call for its departure from Hiroshima next Tuesday. Its next stop will be at Hong Kong to pick up more supplies before proceeding to Haiphong where they will be unloaded for the North Vietnamese.

Scott said communications are being maintained with Mr. Budinh Tung, president of the North Vietnamese Red Cross, who two weeks ago advised the Action volunteers that completion of their voyage is threatened by heavy bombing.

BOMBING RISKS

Dr. Tung told Scott the bombing risks are exceptionally severe in Bac Bo-Tonkin Gulf.

The Phoenix in making its last leg of the trip from Hong Kong, Scott said, will carry prominent markings to indicate its peaceful mission.

He said the symbolical Quaker flag bearing a star, adopted in 1870, will be flown from the ketch and extra signals will be liberally painted on its deck structures.

Medical Supply Shipments To N. Viet Banned by U. S.

WASHINGTON (UPI). — The U. S. has taken action to ban all medical shipments by Americans to Communist North Vietnam.

The Treasury Department said it was denying all pending requests for licenses to send money to relief agencies abroad to purchase medical supplies for shipment to Hanoi.

The licenses are being denied, the department said, because North Vietnam refuses to permit impartial observers to witness distribution of the supplies to verify they go only to civilians and not military personnel.

Pacifists Sail With Supplies For N. Vietnam

5 Americans Plan Haiphong Delivery Of Medical Goods

San Francisco, Jan. 31—Five American pacifists sailed today for Communist North Vietnam with a cargo of medical supplies they said were purchased with contributions raised in the United States and Japan.

The group aboard the 59-foot ketch Phoenix planned to stop in Hong Kong to load more medical goods and pick up three more persons.

The total value of the supplies was said to be $10,000. They expect to reach Haiphong in about three weeks.

U. S. Laws Apply

The U. S. State Department has declined to say what action might be taken against the group, but has noted that U. S. laws prohibit shipment of supplies to North Vietnam without a license and that special validation of passports is required to travel to that country. The group has neither.

The law restricting shipment of supplies carries a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Treasury Dept. Order

On Monday, the Treasury Department banned all medical shipments by Americans to North Vietnam because Hanoi refused to let impartial observers witness distribution of the supplies to verify they go to civilians and not to military personnel.

The Treasury Department said it was denying all pending requests for licenses to send money to relief agencies abroad to purchase medical supplies for shipment to Hanoi.

Those sailing today are Dr. Earle L. Reynolds, 59, of Antioch, Ohio, owner of the ketch; Horace Champney, 61, of Yellow Springs, Ohio; Phillip Drath, 53, of San Rafael, Calif.; Ivan Massar, 40, of Boston; and Bob Eaton, 23, of Philadelphia. All are Quakers except Massar. Reynolds' Japanese wife, Akin, also is on board.

They will be joined in Hong Kong by Mrs. Betty Beardman, 40, of Madison, Wis.; William Heick, of San Francisco; and Richard Faun, a Canadian.

CONCERNED YOUNG FRIENDS

The December 2, 1966, issue of "The Phoenix", a student newspaper, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, carried an article captioned, "Young Friends Seek Funds To Aid Both Sides in War". According to this article, a group of Swarthmore students known as "Concerned Young Friends" intended to collect and send money to the Canadian Friends Service Committee for the purchase of medical supplies to be sent to both North and South Vietnam.

CONCERNED YOUNG FRIENDS

On February 27, 1967, the Treasury Department, Washington, D.C., issued a press release announcing that it was denying all pending requests for licenses to send funds to relief agencies abroad to purchase medical supplies for shipment to North Vietnam. It was stated the decision to deny the licenses was made at the recommendation of the Department of State after it ascertained that North Vietnam refuses to permit impartial observers from any relief agency to witness the distribution of the supplies.

Staff Reporter of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

PHILADELPHIA — In its operations, the American Friends Service Committee prefers to work quietly and to stay in the background. Yet it takes full-page ads in the New York Times to broadcast its views. It has members working with social agencies under the jurisdiction of the South Vietnamese government. Yet it has allocated funds to purchase medical supplies for war victims in North Vietnam as well as in South Vietnam.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee, in a report later withdrawn, in 1963 called the group a "well-known transmission belt for the Communist apparatus." Yet a State Department official speaks well of the AFSC, and officials throughout the Government turn to the group for advice and information.

The American Friends Service Committee Inc. is allied closely, but not officially, with the Religious Society of Friends, or Quakers. The AFSC was formed in 1917 by Quakers to provide an alternative to Quaker youths faced with a conflict between their religious beliefs in nonviolence and demands for military service. It became widely known for its relief efforts after World War I and World War II. More recently, however, the committee has moved almost completely out of relief work and into efforts aimed at reconciling conflicts—domestic and international—before they begin. The committee still holds deeply to its pacifist beliefs.

on the project and expanded the task force to nine states.

Unlike some of the more eye-catching civil rights groups, the AFSC usually prefers hardly visible, long-range efforts to dramatic hit-and-run tactics. This is necessary, AFSC members say, to effect permanent changes in community attitudes and to help safeguard Negroes against reprisals. In pursuit of the latter goal, the AFSC over the past 12 months has made $20,000 in "suffering grants" to 38 Southern Negro families, victims of various sanctions, such as job loss, eviction, or denial of credit for participating in civil rights efforts.

Chicago Housing Program

Once the American Friends Service Committee gets a project going, it prefers to turn it over to local leaders on the theory that a project gains wider acceptance if it is run by persons with roots in the community. A year ago, for instance, the committee turned over to about 100 homeowners a three-year-old fair-housing program in Chicago's wealthy North Shore suburbs.

The North Shore Summer Project is an example of how the AFSC works. Sponsored jointly by the AFSC and local community groups, the project recruited more than 100 Negro and white college-age volunteers to ask hundreds of home - sellers in the suburban Chicago area to list their homes with real estate agents on a nondiscriminatory basis. Of some 673 sellers contacted, about half said they would do so. Also, 82% of 1,560 homeowners contacted said they would accept Negro neighbors.

Later, AFSC-backed volunteers showed the figures to realty agents reluctant to open their multiple-listings to everyone. "We appeal to their conscience," says Charlotte Meacham, head of the AFSC's fair-housing program. "But we also try to convince realty agents that Negro clients won't hurt their business."

Some Direct Action

When appeals to conscience fail, as they have with most Chicago - area agents, the AFSC doesn't hesitate employing the techniques of direct action. This summer the AFSC joined forces with Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference to spur open housing in the Gage Park area of Chicago. AFSC members, four of whom served on Mr. King's 12-man action committee, recommended appropriate areas for non violent marches, recruited marchers and arranged for their transportation to the demonstration sites.

"We also arranged for Negro home-seekers in the area to visit local realty agents, so that we would have evidence of discrimination before the marches began," says William Moyer, director of the housing opportunities program for the AFSC's Chicago office. But even while the march was making headlines the AFSC remained true to form. "We stayed pretty much in the background," says Mr. Moyer. "Our role is the work and not the publicity."

The AFSC may not have much use of publicity, but they do have an almost mystic faith in the healing powers of communication between contending groups. This outlook took shape after World War II when the committee began moving away from comparatively simple relief projects. In the international sphere alone, the AFSC since 1947 has sponsored more than 225 seminars and conferences for students, diplomats and young Afro-Asian leaders, stretching from Kathmandu, Nepal, to such Iron Curtain areas such as Warsaw, Poland, and Sinaja, Rumania.

Such international activities, say AFSC officials, aim to dispel stereotypes and promote understanding between potential and actual combatants, who over the years have included Indians and Pakistanis, Arabs and Israelis, and East and West Germans. "In the sessions, which are always private and off the record, we want potential leaders to broaden their knowledge of countries with whom they may be at odds," says Nora Booth, head of the AFSC's international conferences and seminars program.

What these encounters yield is hard to determine, however. Conceding they've solved no world problems, AFSC members nonetheless point to occasionally surprising incidents. For instance, Indian and Pakistani participants at a recent session in Lahore, Pakistan, sang each other's national songs and later held closed talks among themselves on the Kashmir question. "Usually you can't get an Indian to say anything critical of India in the presence of a Pakistani," says an AFSC official.

Long a believer in working both sides of a conflict, the AFSC in recent years has stepped up contacts with Communist-bloc countries. Next month the committee will hold in cooperation with a Soviet quasicademic agency, a two-week seminar in Moscow suburbs for young American and Russian academicians. The theme: "World peace, national life and individual responsibility."

Helping Out in Vietnam

The committee's involvement in Vietnam illustrates its two-pronged approach to conflicts. Besides paying for medical supplies for war victims in both North Vietnam and South Vietnam, the AFSC has sent members to work on relief projects in South Vietnam and is seeking approval to send members on similar missions to North Vietnam.

In South Vietnam, a committee-sponsored mission recently arrived to on the project and expanded the task force to nine states.

Unlike some of the more eye-catching civil rights groups, the AFSC usually prefers hardly visible, long-range efforts to dramatic hit-and-run tactics. Besides paying for medical supplies for war victims in both North Vietnam and South Vietnam, the AFSC has sent members to work on relief projects in South Vietnam and is seeking approval to send members on similar missions to North Vietnam.

In South Vietnam, a committee-sponsored mission recently arrived to WORK with a child-care center for refugee children in Quang Ngai province. A few weeks ago, three college-age youths, the first batch of a larger contingent the AFSC hopes to send to South Vietnam, arrived in Saigon to work with social agencies under the jurisdiction of the Vietnamese government.

In North Vietnam, the AFSC has proposed that a small group of its members be admitted to operate—with AFSC money—a medical relief project for civilian war victims. "This month our representatives in Europe received word that the proposal is still under active consideration in Hanoi," says Charles Reed, head of the organization's international services division.

Against the War

As for the war itself, the American Friends Service Committee is definitely against it. Earlier this month it took a full-page ad in the Sunday New York Times and urged a cessation of U.S. bombing in Vietnam and a "swiftly phased withdrawal" of American forces there. The ad cost $6,250.

In addition, the AFSC earlier this year issued a 70-page working paper on the war, urging U.S. de-escalation and inclusion of the Communist National Liberation Front (the political arm of the Vietcong) in a provisional government in Saigon. Also, in recent months the AFSC has stepped up the giving of legal advice to hundreds of "draft resisters" at its 11 regional offices. In September, it added a full-time staff member at its Philadelphia headquarters to counsel conscientious objectors on alternatives to military service.

Even so, at least one State Department official has some kind words about the AFSC. He concedes there's a tendency among some AFSC members "to condemn everything bad we do and forgive everything bad our opponents do. They're appalled by war and aren't satisfied by U.S. foreign policy." But unlike some U.S. critics, "I don't find them as a rule irresponsible or destructive," the official says.

Why does the committee help both sides in the war? Says Mr. Reed: "To meet the suffering occasioned by war, we have always sought wherever possible to work both sides in conflict situations on a strictly humanitarian and nonpolitical basis. This isn't always possible but we always try."

An AFSC "Peace Corp"

The American Friends Service Committee's effort in South Vietnam is one of about a dozen "community development" and "youth services" programs that the committee has spread across Latin America, Asia and Africa. Among the most recent and wide-ranging program is Voluntary International Service Assignments, or VISA, the committee's equivalent of the Peace Corps.

Begun in 1960, a year before the Peace Corps, VISA enrolled 50 youths—some half of whom were conscientious objectors—and placed them on projects in the U.S., Tanzania, India, Guatemala and West Germany. In their foreign assignments, young people are teaching arts and crafts in a leper colony, schooling peasants in crop improvement techniques and preparing rural peasants for the intricacies of city life.

A comparison of VISA with the well-heeled Peace Corps illustrates how the AFSC gets things done while pinching pennies. Both Peace Corpsmen and VISA volunteers are rotated every two years, but the AFSC youths get no salary while Corpsmen are paid about $1,300 upon their return to this country. "Our VISA volunteers receive only maintenance and often contribute money of their own to defray costs," says Thelma Howe, who heads the AFSC's youth services division.

"Our volunteers also do without houseboys that Corpsmen are entitled to," adds one AFSC official. As a result of such economies, the average cost of a VISA volunteer in the field is $3,400, compared with $7,788 for a Peace Corpsman. Annual cost of the VISA program: About $194,000.

From Lima to Broken Hill

The committee spends about $400,000 a year on its seven community development programs, which include such varied efforts as spurring formation of rural cooperatives in Jordan, women's sewing cooperatives in Lima, Peru, and furniture-making plants in Broken Hill, Zambia.

These programs also are examples of dollar-stretching. Instead of giving aid directly to a foreign government, as does the Government's Agency for International Development, the committee requires the foreign government and private agencies to contribute to the project as well. What's more, the people being helped must agree to take over the project when the committee decides it should pull out.

This approach doesn't always work. Several years ago, an AFSC job-training program failed in the small Algerian village of Soukel Arba when the villagers, split by factional rivalries, failed to participate fully. "We have a failure when the people don't take the initiative," says Mr. Reed.

Plenty of Applicants

The AFSC has little difficulty recruiting for its various projects. In 1964 it had 475 serious applicants for 25 VISA openings. In its hiring, the AFSC looks for people having "religious motivation, but we're far from doctrinaire in our interpretation of this," says Cathryn Evans, personnel secretary, adding that even agnostics aren't unknown to the committee. "We're basically looking for somebody who is looking for answers for himself," she says. One such person is Scott Neilson, who two years ago left a $12,000 job with a Hartford, Conn., insurance company to assume a $7,500 post with the AFSC. "There's a revolution going on in this country just as significant as the Revolution in 1776," says the 36-year-old. "I don't want to tell my grandchildren that during this time I had a good job making a good living."
